

As a flight attendant I oppose cell phone use onboard aircraft. Aside from the obvious irritation to seatmates, passengers already at times need three or more times to be told to turn their phones off. I think they would also not pay attention during landing. A time when they need to keep their attention to us, should an emergency exist. Security wise also I feel it is a breach of security.